

Who had the best life

I think that coureurs des bois had the best life they had some freedom they were the people that traded with the 1st nations they traded fur for supply's it was a good job they got to travel but they had to be careful they did not hunt too many beavers. beavers were one of the many animals that they hunted the beavers were hunted for hats other animals were hunted for the fur at this time when the french were trading with the 1st nations canada was rich in fur and animals to hunt for their fur but all this was going to change in 1688 the coureurs des bois brought in too many animals pelts and in 1696 the fur trades ended for all the people
